Innovation Toolkit

Developing an innovation toolkit that empowers our Federal workforce to respond to national priorities more quickly and more efficiently.

Inspired by President Obama's pledge to "make government cool again," the U.S. Office of Personnel Management, in connection with the General Services Administration and the U.S. Department of State, will lead an effort to apply technology to augment and tap into the skills, creativity, and capacity for innovation of the Federal workforce. There are a variety of ways the Federal Government can improve the efficiency and productivity of its talented
